'NORMAL BOREDOM'

Dedicated to
DR. AMMANN

*There were two young men with no heart and no peace
They thought to be free lying under a tree*

*And so they lay there from the dawn till dusk
Enjoying the air and the chickens and ducks*

*They thought to be nice and wave with their hands
And so day after day they are under that tree*

*Counting the leaves and waiting for tea
They are as happy as can be.*

Goodbye for now
