'ARTIST'S CULTURE'

Dedicated to
DR. AMMANN

*There were two young men who were charming as sweets
They turned the heads of all in the streets*

*They looked at their ties and laughed and were pleased
Looking down to their socks they began to sneeze*

*The boys didn't mind as much as they might
For they were artists and that was their plight*

*The funny thing is they're really quite normal
It's just that they seem of another order.*

Goodbye for now
